From Chanute Blade we learn that that city has provided for the entertainment of "Wandering Williams" by allowing them or compelling them rather, to work for their meals, which the marshal is authorized to give. That relieves individuals of the expense, and gives the city full benefit in return for a good square meal given a willing, unfortunate. It is a good plan and more just and equitable than for individuals to do it.

The many Iowa and Allen county friends of J. L. Perry will regret to learn that he is getting ready to leave Kansas, having purchased 100 acres of cotton and fruit land near Houston, Texas. Capital: T. S. Stover, assistant secretary state, has received a letter from William J. Stewart of Glasgow, Scotland, asking what inducement would be offered for the establishment of a beet sugar plant in this state. Mr. Stewart makes inquiries as to the best location for such a plant, and in reference to the amount of bounty given by the State on the manufacture of sugar. Mr. Stewart also asks whether the State would grant a building subsidy in the event of $2,500,000 being invested in the plant. The letter was turned over to Secretary of Agriculture F. D. Coburn for reply.

Sombody told us that there was a prize fight at LaHarpe last Saturday night between Frank Cruise, of LaHarpe and a Pittsburg pugilist, named Brown, the latter undertaking to knock Cruise out in 15 rounds or lose the fight. Our informant said there was regular ring, with ropes and referees and all the trimmings and circumstance of glorious old Queensberry, and that the hot sports of LaHarpe paid 25 cents to see the show. The Pittsburg man failed to carry out his contract, and Cruise walked off with $15.00 and the gate money. All of which is more or less important provided nobody has been stuffing the man who told us.

The boys of company D., are justly indignant at the allusion to them in some of the state papers as "The Leedy Guards." They declare that there isn't a Pop. in the whole company, and only three Democrats, and while they expect to obey any legal orders they may get from Mr. Leedy after he becomes governor, they are not flattered by adopting his name. "Company D., Kansas National Guards" is good enough for them. And by the way the company received its arms and accoutrements the first of the week, consisting of 60 Springfield rifles, with belts, cartridge boxes, knapsacks and haversacks complete, including several boxes of murderous looking ammunition. The uniforms for the privates came also, and the boys are having great times fitting themselves to the job lot of trousers and blouses that was sent them. These equipments, uniforms included, are furnished by the National Government, through the adjutant general of the state. The officers are required, however, to provide their own uniforms. That is the price of rank and glory. The company now has 80 men, the full complement allowed by law, and is already becoming quite proficient in the marching drills. It expects to give a social soon to raise money to purchase the necessary fixtures for the armory.

STRANGE, but people somehow always like to buy where they can see a good assortment of good goods. For instance a lady goes to a store to buy muslin. She has made up her mind to buy "Fruit", but she wants to see and compare it with "Lonsdale" and two or three other good brands, before she makes her purchase. Or, if she thinks of buying a Jacket, asks what the Capes "look like." Same way with shoes. She will look at "coin" and "needle" and buy the "razor" which she intended to do all the time. It's human nature. Call it curiosity, crankiness—what you will—it's one of the principles that mark a progressive race.

Price cuts a big figure, too. We measure our purchases (more or less) by the fatness of our purse. Price and assortment combined make the popular store. We are onto the combination. We don't need to back the assertion with anything. It's a fact and you know it. By-the-way have you seen those new Ramie fascinators we are showing? Ramie fibre looks like silk, holds color like silk and wears like linen. Right along with them we have all kinds and colors of ice wool and Saxony fascinators. Yarns to knit them if you prefer. Get our new price on Saxony.

Mr. Al. Baumgartner has bought a residence lot next to the old M. E. Parsonage and expects to build a handsome residence in the spring. In the meantime he has been compelled to fix up the barn as a temporary shelter for his family, who will join him in a week or two. His old friends are glad to have him and his family return to Iowa to live.

Rev. W. T. Huff, of Savonburg who is now Superintendent of the Friends Quarterly Meeting in the district comprising Coffey, Wilson, Woodson, Neosho and Allen counties, was in Iowa Tuesday and called to have the REGISTER follow him to Buffalo where he will make his home the coming year. He told us that Perry, the 18-year-old son of Mr. Al. Huff, was accidentally shot on Monday evening by Mr. H. Myers who was experimenting with a pistol which "wasn't loaded." The ball entered the left forearm, passed between the bones at the elbow and lodged in the heavy muscles above, making a very serious but not a fatal wound.

Delightful refreshments were served and everyone had a good time.

Dorothy Lodge, Daughters of Rebeckah, had a very enjoyable time in their lodge rooms last Thursday evening. Misses Dollie Wilker, Josie Hazzard and May Cole were initiated into the order after which the doors were thrown open to a host of invited friends who came to have a good time. The new lodge room was lighted and heated and two immense banquet tables, laden with all the good edibles of the season, were spread the entire length of the room. Besides the host of Iowa people present there were Mr. and Mrs. C. McCann, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Martin and Messrs. James, Knight, Burrell, Reid, Depew, Palmer, of Ester Lodge, No. 191, of Yates Center. It was a jolly crowd and they remained until the next day and returned home on the morning passenger.
